Poetry.

Discontent.

A man in his carriage was riding along,
His gaily-dressed wife by his side;
In satins and laces she looked like a queen,
And he like a king in his pride.

A wood-sawyer stood on the street as they passed:
The carriage and couple he eyed,
And said, as he worked with his saw on a log:
"I wish I, was rich and could ride."

The man in the carriage remarked to his wife
"On thing I would give if I could—
I would give all my wealth for the strength and the health
Of the man who is sawing the wood."

Selected Story.

A Woman's Choice.

"I wish I knew what to do!"

Kate Warfield, sitting on a knoll in the cool, shadowy orchard, on a warm and pleasant summer afternoon, gave utterance to the wish.

She was in a quandary. She had two lovers, and she wondered which it was best for her to choose.

John Rainsford was young, and a life full of promise, and great possibilities before him. But he was poor. Kate Warfield knew that he loved her as a strong man can love, but could she, used to the luxuries of life, give up to that which seemed necessary to her comfort, and marry a poor man?

Philip Leith was old and rich. And he, in this letter which she had just been reading, made her an offer of his heart—supposing such an organ to be in existence—and hand. He could give her the things she longed for, the glitter and show she conveted.

She heard some one whistling down the road, and looking down that way saw John coming. Something seemed to tell her that she must decide between her lovers now, and in a swift way she looked the matter over. On one side wealth and fashion, and all that heart could wish for in the gratification of its selfish worldy enjoyments. On the other hand, an humble life, and struggle to climb to that position where wealth could place her at once.

But then? Did she—could she love Philip Leith, a man old enough to be her father? Would his wealth make up for what her life would have if love was in it? As she asked herself that question she felt a twinge which told her that, after all, she cared for John Rainsford as she had never cared for any other man, and for a moment she wondered if life with him would be preferable to life with Philip Leith and all his wealth.

But the glitter of gold blended her, and she shut her eyes to the pure vision which passed before them for a moment, and in that resolute crushing down of the better impulses of her nature, John Rains fort's answer to his wooing was made, before he asked for it.

He came up the orchard path, and sat down upon the knoll beside her. He had learned, in the summer gone by, to love this woman as he thought he could never love another one. She was all that was pure and true and womanly in woman to him.

"I have had a letter from the city," she said. "I am going back next week."

"So soon?" he said, slowly, and looking thoughtfully off to the blue hills. She knew well enough what he was thinking about.

"Yes; I have lingered here too long already. This summer has been a very pleasant one to me. One of the pleasantest summers of my life, I think."

"Can you guess what it has been to me?" he asked suddenly. "I have learned a lesson in it that I have never tried to learn before, I have learned to love—to love you!"

His earnest eyes were on her face. His words were full of passionate strength and tenderness. Beneath his gaze, she felt how unworthy she was of such a love as he gave her.

"I am sorry," she said slowly.

He started, growing pale.

"Why?" he asked.

"Because—this letter is from the man I am to marry!"

He answered not a word, but his eyes were on her face in a strange; half-doubting gaze. Could these words of hers be true? Could it be that the weman he had thought to be so true and womanly, and who had let him go on learning to love her, knowing all the while to what he was drifting, was the promised wife of another? How he had been deceived in his estimate of her. I think the shock which John Rainsford's faith in woman's truth received was, at that moment, full as strong as that which her answer gave the love he held for her. To him she was the ideal woman; the type of womankind, and, proving her untrue, he doubted all, because he had been so cruelly deceived in her.

She saw the lines of pain about his mouth, "I am sorry," she began.

But he stopped her,

"Dont!" he said. "Leave the matter as it is. It is better so. No words of yours are needed to soften the blow. I shall get over it, in time, I think without them."

"If I had known—" she said, but again he interrupted her.

"I am going now. I hope you will be happy and never regret what you have done, but some day I think you will see what a pitiful amusement it is to win a man's love, just for the mere sake of winning it. Good-bye."

And John Raisford was gone.

Eight years passed, bringing strange changes with them.

Kate Warfield, in the years gone by since that summer afternoon when she made her choice between the man who loved her, had become a wife and a widow.

In all those years she had not succeeded in forgetting John Rainsford—she had tried to do so. Her husband had been kind to her. He had lavished his wealth upon her. But she could not love him. She had been a true end faithful wife to him, that is, if a woman can be that without love, but all the while a memory lurked in her heart of a summer-time that had been strangely sweet and pleasant because of the love that had come to her in it.

Ten years had also brought changes to John Rainsford. He had become a successful man. People began to point him out as one of the most promising men in the political world.

One night there was a party at one of the Seantors' houses in Washington. The beauty and talent of the season were there. The scene was like one from enchantment, Light shone on gay, bright faces full of the glad excitement of youth and life, and on older and soberer faces, for whom the novelty and freshness of such gatherings had worn off. Jewels flashed and sparkled, and lent an added brilliancy to the scene The air was full of strange and sweet perfumes. The soft and mellow music from an unseen band made the air vibrate with exquisite melody.

Kate Leith, in a dress of fabric, that set off the beauty of her face to perfection, looked out upon the scene with a hope stirring in her heart that was very sweet and tender. The man who loved her in years gone by was there. She was free now, and she knew that she loved him. If, in all these years, he had not forgoten her!

And then the woman's heart stirred with a feeling that was inexpressibly tender. Her life had lacked somthing that gold could not purchase. It was love that she had needed to make her life what the life of every woman ought to be.

A swift color flashed into her cheeks. He was coming toward her, with a sweet faced woman leaning on his arm.

He saw her and came forward with outstreched hands.

"I am happy to meet you once more," he said. Her eyes drooped under his gaze, and a soft, happy light came and went in them. She gave him her hand with an eagerness that told how glad she was to see hlm.

"Allow me to present my wife. Lois, this is an old friend of mind, Mrs. Leith." Every trace of color from the woman's face. But she gave his wife her hand in a smiling welcome, and mumured a few words of congratulation, while her heart was covering up a sweet hope that had met a swift and sudden death. So true it is that smiles can hide an aching heart!

Gates County.

GATESVILLE,
July 22, 1874.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

That portion of our dear, mother State, Gates Co., is the place where we have been reared, and in our humble opinion is the garden spot of North Carolina, but we fear that few will think so, as very many are of the opinion that the land is poor and the people poverty stricken. We prefer living in it to any other on earth. Its towering hills, verdent vales, singing streams, shady groves, broad blooming fields, will ever be sacred to us no matter what others we behold. Should a foreigner wish to settle in the Old North State, no where could he select a place where he would enjoy better health, drink purer water, breathe fresher air, enjoy more comforts or better society than in Gates County. The land here is similar to that of other counties; a portion exceedingly light and rich, other parts tolerably stiff but fertile, and some very unproductive—will not make profitable returns for labor bestowed upon it. The rich lands or those made so by fertilizers produce cotton and corn finely, and an immense quantity of the former is yearly made; the agriculturist being uuder the impression they can make more money by raising this product for sale than any other staple. It is pleasant to behold the broad fields of cotton all now in bloom; and corn, each stalk with tassled top, and silken ear bowing gracefully under the summer breeze. The wheat and oat crops too, a sea of gold at harvest dazzled the eye, as they waved like the billows of the ocean.

We not only love our native county, but are proud of the people residing in it. In word and deed they move and breathe the soul of worth and honor; their bearing is high, and their natures brave. In the hour of danger they have hearts of steel. They have won the admiration of the brave by their chivalry. They possess kind hearts, and very many are persons of the brightest intellects; prompt, and correct in all business transactions. With all they are persevering, energetic and industrious. The majority, except professional men, are earnestly engaged in farming, believing no employment is better calculated to enlighten the mind, to procure more true happiness and virtue—one that better illustrates the existence and goodness of a Divine Being. We claim to have some patriotism, and sincerely hope that the people in other counties of our dear romantic mother State are as anxious as those in Gates, to see it restored to prosperity; that they are striving as earnestly to foster and advance her agricultural interests, and develop her industrial resources. We wish the sons of North Carolina to let farming be their chief employment. They will rise to affluence after a few years of toil. There is certainly not a nobler or more healthful avocation than tilling the earth, as those who engage in it work more than profes sional gentlemen, and develope all the muscles of the body. They do not over work the brain; they are not ambitions, and do not wear themselves out so rapidly in the fierce contest for rivalry. When the sable curtain of night is drawn they enjoy naturer's sweet restorer—sleep. They feel refreshed and rise early and wend their way to the broad blooming fields, not only to labor but to enjoy the rich grand scene, the distant eastern skies continuing to brighten until the glorious orb of day rises from his burning bed, shedding light and warmth over the diversified surface of the earth, clothed in nature's verdant robes. The vernal music of the groves sound sweetly; the atmosphere is balmy, and ladened with the perfumes of flowers and plants. We are somewhat digressing as usual and will return.

The crops in Gates County are very promising at present; it has not been too wet nor dry for them. We have had heavy rains occasionally during the summer, and very frequently delightful showers which cooled the heated air and caused the vegetation to look beautifully green. There was a severe hailstorm a few weeks ago, and in some vicinities the crops were seriously injured, but it did no harm in this neighborhood. The last work necessary to the growth of vegetation has been furnished, and the sons of toil are having a delightful time. As they are at leisure they can enjoy each others society more than they formerly could; they attend places of amusement, get into political discussions or converse on other subjects; sometimes listen to speeches delivered by candidates.

Miscellaneous.

Another Boy that Had a Hatche

From St. Nicholas.

A little boy having heard a beautiful story about a little boy and a hatchet, and how, because the little boy wouldn't tell a lie, he in time, got to be President of the United States, was very much impressed by it. Now, it so happened that on the last day of March, he was just ten years old, and his father asked him what he would like to have for a birthday present. Very naturally the boy's answer was, "A little hatchet, if you please, papa."

The father bought him a little hatchet that very day, and the boy was so delighted that he actuelly took it to bed with him.

Early the next morning he got up, dressed himself, took his little hatchet, and went out into the garden. There, as luck would have it, the first thing that caught his eye was his father's favorite cherry tree. "My eyes!" exclamied the little boy to himself, "what a time my father would make if a fellow were to cut that tree!" It was a wicked thought, for it led him into temptation. There was the tree,—tall, straight, and fair—standing invitingly before him—just the thing for a sharp littte hatchet. And there was the hatchet—strong, sharp, and shining—just the thing for a favorite cherry tree. In another instant the swift strokes of the axe were heard in the still morning air, and before long, a small boy was seen running towards the house. His father met him at the door.

"My boy what noise was that I heard just now? Shurely you have not been at my favorite cherry tree!"

The boy stood proudly before him, but with down cast eyes and flushing cheeks.

"Father," he said, "I can not tell a lie. That cherry tree is ——."

"Say no more," said the father, extending his arms. "You have done wrong my son; and that was my favorite tree; but you have spoken the truth. I forgive you. Better to ——."

This was too much. The boy rushed into his father's arms.

"Father!" he whispered, "April fool! I haven't touched the cherry tree; but I most chopped the old apple-stump to pieces,"

"You young rascal, you!" cried the father, "do you mean to say haven't chopped my cherry tree? April fool your old father, will you? Take off your coat sir!"

With a surpressed sob, the little boy obeyed. Then, shutting his eyes, he felt his father's hand descend upon his shrinking form.

"My son," said the father, solemnly, as he stroked the little shoulder. "It is the first of April. Go thy way."

Beecher's First Sermon in Plymouth Church.

I conversed with a gentleman to-day who heard Mr. Beecher preach his first sermon in Brooklyn. The site where the Plymouth Church now stands was considered so unfavorable to public worship that Dr. Cox's society abandoned it and sold it to the Plymouth people for a mere song. Cox's people owing to the visit of Mr. Beecher, were obliged to give up their church before they were ready. The lecture room being crowded many of the old Society went back to their own home. The congregation that greeted Mr. Beecher half filled the house. Just before the services commenced a rough-looking youngster, with a torn-down collar, with an air of haste and energy, took the pulpit. He looked like a young farmer fresh from the plow. His dress was soiled, hair in the utmost confusion, clothes ill fitting, stockins blue, shoes unblacked. Following Dr. Cox, who was ultra clerical, with his white cravat and black silk gown, the young western preacher formed a very marked contrast. He did then what he has done ever since, proceeded at once to business without the formality of what is known as a private prayer. Before the preacher got through, his rough western look, his untidy hair, seedy dress, blue stockings, short pants, and coarse shoes were forgotten. Then nearly all the churches had services in the afternoon. Young Beecher was to preach in the evening. My informant and family went leisurely to church. There was an acre of people outside. Even the standing room was occupied before 7 o'clock. The disappointed ones, as they went away gave vent to their feelings in the original remark, "A new broom," etc. And the broom has been sweeping away for twenty-seven years.—Burleigh's Letter to the Boston Journal.

A Man of Few Words.

"Waiter!"

"Sir!" replied the waiter.

"Waiter, I am a man of few words, and I don't like to be continually ringing the bell and disturbing the house; I'll thank you to pay attention to what I say, and to remember that although there are three ways of doing things, I only like one way in those who have subordinate stations and minds. In the first place, bring me a glass of brandy and water (cool,) with a little sugar, and also a teaspoon; wipe down this table, throw some coals on the fire, and sweep down the hearth; bring me in a couple of candles, pen, ink, and paper, some wafers, and a little sealing-wax; tell the hosler to take care of my horse, dress him well, stop his feet and let me know when he is ready to feed; order the chaimbermaid to preapre me a good bed, and a glass of water in the room; send the boots with a pair of slippers that I can walk to the stable in; tell him that I must have my boots cleaned and brought into the room to-night, and that I shall want to be called at five o'clock in the morning; ask your mistress what I can have for supper; tell her I should like a roast duck, or something of that sort; desire your master to step in, I want to ask him a few questions; send me the directory; change this five dollars worth of stamps into bills, none of them to be worn; when does the mail arrive with the letters, and what time before midnight does the mail leave?—just tell me what time it is by the clock on the landing, and leave the room.'

That "little birds do in their nests agree" is no credit to the little birds, because it would rever do for them to fall out.

The Troubles of John Smith.

Why will the Smiths, man and wife, go on naming the majority of their male offsprings "John?" It is exceedingly stupid, and it is about time to put a stop to the practice. It is all very well to say to a man—"Know thyself!" but how is a man to know himself if his name is John Smith. For Mr. and Mrs. Smith to name their son John is to send him forth nameless in the world. He is a digitless cipher. We yesterday morning had in our Police Court to report the following item:

John Smith, arrested by officers Loyd and Iby on a charge of petty larceny; dismissed.

Then came pouring forth scores of notes of distresed and outraged John Smiths. The poor fellows are obliged to parade before the public not only their trades and troubles, but also their infirmities, in order that the public may not mistake them for thieves. The following are only a few of the notes we have received, and are taken at random from the avalanche that covers our table.

EDITOR ENTERPRISE:—Please state that the John Smith mentioned in your Police Court report this moraning—the petty-larceny fellow—was not the John Smith who does night work, and oblige

Yours truly, John Smith.

EDITOR ENTERPRISE:—Will you be kind enough to state that the John Smith arrested yesterday for petty-larceny was not John Smith who drives the swill cart.

Yours. John Smith.

REPORTER ENTERPRISE:—Please say that the John Smith arrested for stealing was not red-headed John Smith, the tinker.

Respectfully,
John Smith.

MR. LOCAL:—You will oblige me by saying that one-legged John Smith is not the petty-larceny cuss who was in the Police Court yesterday.

Your obedient,
John Smith.

MR. ITEM:—Be good enough to say that the John Smith up yesterday for theft was not the Smith commonly known as "Lying Jack Smith, from Poker Flat."

I remain, ect.,
John Smith.

LOCAL ITEM:—Please correct your police report of yesterday morning by saying that the John Smith up before Judge Marple yesterday for petty-larceny was not the John Smith lately divorced from his wife, and commonly known as "Cock-eyed Smith," and you will oblige,

Respectfully,
John Smith.

MR. ENTERPRSE:—I am no d—d thief! I wish you to state in your paper that the John Smith pulled yesterday for petty-larceny was not John Smith from Idaho, commonly called "Sore-legged Jack."

Yours, ect.,
John Smith.

As may be seen by the above struggles of the John Smiths to make themselves known, John Smith is no name at all. Indeed it is worse than no name. Let Mr. and Mrs. Smith name their boy Ebenezer, Hippatodorus, Gabriol, Lacedaemonicus, Jodediah or Epaphroditus, but let us have no more John Smiths—at least not for a generation or two, when there shall appear to be a demand for them.

For the comfort of the John Smiths who have asked us to set them right, we will state that the John Smith arrested on a charge of petty-larceny is better is better known as "Suck-egg Smith."—Virginia City Enterprise.

The Republican Party Mainly Composed of Workingmen.

The great majority of the people of the United States, who are toilers with brain and hand, are particularly interested in the maintenance of our Government. The Republican party, under whose leadership the Government is now moving, is composed almost exclusively of laboring men; in the North and West its stronghold is among the farmers and mechanics of the villages, and in the South its most enthusiastic supporters are the recently emancipated slaves. Thus the separate interests of the workingmen are safe in its keeping; for while we have an abundant number of laborers, we have, thank God, no laboring class no hereditary caste. Men may be engaged either in physical or mental labors, or in any particular branch thereof, during their whole life, but it is entirely voluntary, and many of them change from one to the other as it may to them seem best.

If man, or woman either, wishes to realize the full power of personal beauty, it must be by cherishing noble hopes and purposes, by having something to do and something to live for which is worthy of humanity, and which, by expanding the capacities of the soul, gives expansion and symmetry to the body which contains it.

A quarrel between husband and wife was thus settled; Husband—"My dear, there were thirty in this room!" Wife—"I say there were forty." Husband—"I say there were not." Well, thirty, then, and the piano (putting her hand on the instrument,) piano-forte. There!"

Cicero, who was born 106 years before Christ, wrote: "I consider this world as a place which nature never intended for my permanent abode; and I look on my departure from it not as being driven from my habitation, but simply as leaving an inn."

"Sam, why don't you talk to your master and tell him to lay up treasures in Heaven!" "What's de use of him laying up treasures up dar? He never see um again."

In Virginia City, a male Indian dressed as a squaw, is frequently seen. He is forced to wear female attire as a punishment for cowardice.

DEFEATED BUT NOT DISMAYED.

The election is over and the verdict has been rendered at the ballot box We are defeated but not dismayed. Two years hence we'll marshal our forces again and, without a shadow of doubt, will redeem the State and District as in 1872 we gained what we lost in 1870. It will be remembered that in that year the Democrats carried the State and that in the counties now composing the Congressional District they had a majority of over 1100. But in 1872 we carried the State and District by handsome majorities.

As for the State ticket, we are not surprised at the result. There was no thorough canvass, Our candidate, Mr. PURNELL, promised to visit and speak in every county in the State but failed to do so. In the Congressional District there were three things operating against us; 1st. the inexplicable folly of Congress agitating and not disposing of the Civil Rights bill; 2nd. the dissentions and divisions of our party on local politics in nearly every county, and 3rd. the inability of Mr. COBB to visit and speak to the people of each county of the District. The first was so manipulated as to arouse the prejudices of race and as the result we lost largely in the white vote. Hundreds of honestly disposed voters became toolishly alarmed—too much excited to coolly consider that this whole question must be settled and disposed of long before Maj. YEATES can take his seat or have a voice and vote in Congress. The second created jealousies, animosities and bitterness that reduced our vote in every county where they existed, and the third made it impossible to arouse the enthusiasm the personal presence of a candidate always inspires.

The first two causes just enumerated likewise defeated our Senatorial ticket. To these alone are Messers. SHAW and JERNIGAN indebted for their election. How the former can swear to support a Constitution he has publicly branded as "damnable," which he must do before he can take his seat, we leave for him and his conscience to reconcile. As for the latter we have a hope that he will get back to first principles and upon all important questions vote in accordance with the sound policy laid down in his excellent article published in the NORTH CAROLINIAN in December 1872.

The Judicial District on a close vote is Democratic. There was no charge of incompetency nor a single reflection made upon the official integrity of the present Judge and Solicitor. Let us hope that the newly elected officers will prove as able, as faithful and as unbiased as have been those about about to retire.

We repeat that we are beaten, but as good citizens we submissively "accept the situation." For once, in our political calculations, we have been mistaken and we frankly acknowledge it. The "Civil Rights" scare was greater than we could believe. When it passes over, as it soon will, its victims—those Republicans who voted against us and the larger number who did not vote at all—will regret their action. Already we have acknowledgements justifying this conclusion.

DISASTERS BY FLOOD.

There has been a perfect epidemic of sad disasters by storm and flood during the present summer. First came the Mill River calamity in which by the bursting of a reservoir one hundred and forty-five persons were swept into eternity, an immense amount of property destroyed and hundreds of families left destitute. Then occurred several minor calamities from similar cause, until it seemed that our reservoirs generally were about to break away. Then came the Salisbury disaster, by which another valley was devastated, and which was accompanied by storms and floods in various parts of the country. A fortnight since we had an account of the bursting of a waterspout in Nevada, which swept through the town of Eureka, killing twenty persons and causing great destruction of property. Last week we published the accounts of the fearful storms at Pittsburgh, by which portions of that city and all Allegheny city were inundated and from one to two hundred lives lost. The number of the bodies of the dead which had been recovered at the last account, was one hundred and thirty-three, and many persons were still missing. The Atlantic cable now brings the intelligence that the damage done by the recent storms in Moravia, of which we had previous accounts, far exceeds the first estimates. Eleven villages and two towns were devastated. Numerous storms and floods, only less destructive to life and property, have occurred during the present summer, making an unusual record, and full of sad particulars.

Mrs. Mary Strain, of Pittsburg, Pa., has married three brothers in succession. —Ex.

She evidently believes in brotherly love.

FARMERS! BEAUTIFY YOUR FARMS

It is a false economy and a serious mistake in the great majority of our country people in neglecting to expend both a portion of their time and money in adding to the beauty and comforts of their homes and its surroundings. In addition to improving the farm and planting orchards and building convenient outhouses, each farmer should set out shade trees, ornament as far as possible his front yard with roses and flowers and a neat fence, and make the dwelling as convenient and neat as possible. As the result he will find each successive improvement binding himself and children closer and closer to home. Depend upon it, as this is done his wife and daughters will become more content—will fall in love with the country—his sons will love home more than the grogshop, and more of them prefer farming to measuring tape or professional loafing.

Farmers! make your homes beautiful, convenient and pleasant, and your children will love it above all other places; they will leave it with regret, think of it with fondness, come back to it joyfully, and seek their chief happiness around their home fireside.

Women and children need more than food and raiment—more than acres of corn and cotton spread out around them. Their love of the beautiful must be gratified. Their tastes must be cultivated; their sensibilities humored, not shocked. To accomplish this good end, home must be made lovely, conveniences multiplied, comforts provided and cheerfulness fostered.

There must be both sunshine and shade, luscious fruits and fragrant flowers, as well as corn and cotton. The mind and the heart as well as the fields must be cultivated, and their intelligence and entertainment will be the rule instead of the exception.

A THOUGHT.

Sitting musing in our editorial chair our mind was drawn to reflect upon the wonderful beneficence of Nature, and the thought occurred to us that nowhere is this more clearly seen than in the variety of changes, the many forms, and the diverse uses to which water is susceptible. Whether it be considered in the ocean, the father and sustainer of all organic life; in the morning dew, glittering all the colors of the rainbow; in the dazzling glacier or eternal snow; in the clouds that chase each other in stupendious masses across the sky, forming here great bridges resting over half ruined arches, their deep rivers, thundering cateracts and beautiful castles; in the mountain stream or in the avalanche which the wing of a bird might dislodge—in every form, in every color, in every change we cannot but see the hand of the great Creator. The soul demands beauty and harmony, just as it does right and truth; and unless these desires are satisfied, either through the imagination or the creators of Art, there can be no real refinement. Therefore, evey good picture or statue is one more joy to the human race; by it some heart is touched, by it the soul of man is lifted above the earthly and transitory to the spiritual and eternal. But there is a tenderness, a sympathy, a fullness of joy connected with the objects of nature that no art can imitate. The very trees are full of glowing memories of the past.

> Your voiceless life, O Flowers! are living preachers—
> Each cup a pulpit, each leaf a book."

FROM THE COUNTIES.

The reports come in slowly. We give the majorities so far as received:

Perquimans.—The Republicans carry the State ticket by 133 majority; the Judicial ticket by 317; the Senatorial ticket by 108; YEATES has 20 majority and RANSOM 2 votes. The Republican county ticket is pretty generally elected.

Pamlico.—YEATES majority about 150 RANSOM got 18 votes.

Currituck.—The majority for YEATES 405; for EURE 782.

Gates.—Democratic State ticket 356 majority. YEATES 429; EURE 815; and Washington 472. Camden gives YEATES 187 majority; Chowan gives COBB 132 majority; Hertford near 100 majority for COBB; Bertie gives him about 500; Dare about 50; Martin 50; Tyrrell gives YEATES over 300 majority; Pitt, Beaufort and Hyde not heard from. Poor RANSOM don't get 200 votes in the District.

The majority of YEATES will be in the neighborhood of 1000. The Democrats also carry their Judicial and Senatorial tickets.

The secret of successful farming can be revealed in a few words. Continue from year to year to improve the land by a judicious and systematic rotation of crops; cultivate clover and the grasses that make good hay; carefully save and faithfully apply all the manure from the stock. This will save the necessity of purchasing costly fertilizers; the land will continue to improve, the crops increase, and in a few years there will be a small surplus of everything to sell.

It is not tools that make the workman, but the trained skill and perseverance of the man himself. Indeed it is proverbial that the bad workman never yet had a good tool. Some one asked OPIE by what wonderful process he mixed his colors. "I mix them with my brains, sir," was his reply. It is the same with every workman who would excel.

It is an encouraging reflection that at no time since the outbreak of the war has the mercantile indebtedness of the whole country been so small as at present, and never was there a better prospect for a flourishing fall trade.

It is true that Nature has made the sexes wonderfully different, and we suppose she will go on making them so right along.—Ex.

Well, who wants it changed? Not we by any means.

By carefully comparing the popular vote of 1874 with that of 1872 it will be seen that the Democratic vote has not increased—is just about what it was then, while the Republican vote has largely fallen off. Thus, instead of there being a great Democratic "tidal wave" or revolution in public sentiment, the "victory" the opposion is crowing over is nothing to boast of after all. A full vote two years hence will change it all back again.

Good schools make men.—BACON. Never was there a truer saying. They are in a strong sense of the term man factories. Let them be increased.

CORRESPONDENCE

From Boston.

BOSTON, MASS.,
August 7th, 1874.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian.

Our Summer, thus far, has been a cold one, and but few comparatively of our citizens, are absent. Crops are large and plenty abounds. Money is abundant at low rates of interest; business promises briskness by past time. All classes are hopeful. Our fisheries are successful and fish promises well for the selling season. No. 3 mackerel are short. This makes way for the Sound Herring, unless the catch should be very large on the Nova Scotia shore.

We look for four million bales of cotton, and we hope at not under 16 cts in our market. That sum is better for us than 12 cents, and is about as low as you can afford to raise it. We are one with you, and what hurts the South, is the same to the North.

The New York scandal opens up a page or two of the "reform" life, certain women folks plead for. Its chief Priestess says all right in practice, only the profession is lacking. Men, women and professions are less than good conduct. Women influence men most and best from their own homes. A home is the woman's best weapon to reform the world with, and the best reform we know of is to stay in the right.

A correspondent (who is well known in the scientific world) writes from Bloomington, Indiana: Mr. William Ross, who resides in Monroe county, Indiana, six miles south of Bloomington, is probably the oldest man in the State, and one of the oldest in the country. He was born near Dover, Delaware, May 17th, 1739, and is consequently in the 116th year of his age. His father some years before the commencement of the revolutionary war, removed to Guilford county, N. C. About 1812 Mr. R. emigrated to Dearborn county, Indiana, whence he removed to his present residence in Monroe county about 1820. He is one of the few still living who saw General Washington. He speaks with lively interest of events which occurred a century since, and which he still remembers with great distinctness.

The marine disasters during July, of vessels belonging to or bound to or from ports in the United States, numbered 19, the value of the vessels, exclusive of their cargoes, being $142,000. There were lost six barks, one brig and twelve schooners. No Philadelphia are included in the lift, and it also omits the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer City of Guatemala, stranded on Watling's Island, and the ship Warrior Queen, ashore on the Califoania coast, as both of there vessels will probably be saved.

A girl of fifteen years, Henrietta Wabel, is under arrest in New York, having confessed to setting fire to a room in a hotel at West Farm New York, because she saw the infant child of the proprietor asleep on abed and wanted to see it burn up. The fire, however, was extinguished, but not until the little one was somewhat burned. She appears to have the same devilish mania that effects the Pomeroy boy of Boston.

A runaway couple went to Eugene City, Oregon, to get married. The clergyman and clerk both wanted proof that the young lady was of proper age. Strategy, which has proven so efficient in other scenes, was resorted to. The figures 18 were placed in the bottom of the shoes of the maiden, and one who was in the secret affirmed that she was over eighteen. This brought the license and the clergyman—they were made happy.

It is put forth as news that the master of the National Grange wants to go to Congress. What did the gossips suppose the grangers were organized for?

OFFICIAL VOTE OF PASQUOTANK COUNTY, AUGUST 6, 1874.

The Last Gift Concert Postponed

The announcement of the posponement of the last gift concert of the Public Library of Kentucky will not surprise the public. In Governor Bramlett's card, published below, he gives reasons for it which will be accepted without question by every one. The management in this instance, consulting the interests of ticket holders, have waited until the last day to make this announcement, but just as soon as they become satisfied of the necessity of this posponement, have promptly made the announcement. It is unnecessary to review the causes which have necositated this action, as they are fully recited in Governor Bramlett's card. The promptness and frankness with which the public have been made aware of the intentions of the manager will meet with the hearty commendation of every one and excite such a new interest and confidence in the scheme and the ability of the manager to preform what he promises, that there can be no doubt that on the day specified the last concert will be a full one.

POSPONEMENT LAST GIFT CONCERT—A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

The announcement of the posponemeut of the fifth and last concert of the Public Library of Kentucky to the 30th November, I am satisfied, will surprise few and disappoint none of the friends and patrons of the enterprise. Indeed any other course would create dissatisfaction. With a precedent of a posponement of each of the four concerts which have already been given, the public have very naturally and reasonably expected that in this, by far the largest scheme of the series and the largest ever offered to the world, the same course would be followed, and there are thousands all over the country who are only waiting for the setting of a certain fixed day for the drawing before sending in their orders. The sales of tickets to this date have been satisfactory, and a large drawiug might be had on the 31st July, but feeling assured that a short posponement would enable us to close out the remaindeuld the tickets and make the drawing a full one, we have adopten the course which has evidently been anticipated, and which must eventuate most satisfactorily for all.

Now that the day of the drawing is absolutely determined, there remains no futher occasion for delay, and I would urge the friends of the enterprise, who intend to purchase tickets, to sen in their orders, as it will tax my office to its utmost capacity to accomplish all that is to be done in the short time which remains for the sale of tickets.

Agent and Manager

The French Legislative Assembly, on Saturday the 1st, was the scene of one of those turbulent demonstrations which have been too common of late, and which are dark omens in regard to the future of France. M. Galloni D'Istria, a Bonapartist, having on Friday used the expression that the Republic had succumbed before the scorn of honest men, he was challenged by members of the Left to repeat the words, which he did. Thereupon Victor Schodcher, republican, gave him the lie, and several deputies from the Left rushed toward him shouting and shaking their fists. The President of the Assembly unable to restore order, suspended the sitting. It is intimated that several duels will follow this scene. We may well pity France when such scenes are all the while occurring in the National Legislature.

A young lady in a Pennsylvania town put a piece of wedding cake under her pillow, and went to bed with the happy belief that she would dream of seeing her future husband. That evening, however, she had eaten two plates of ice cream, about a pint of strawberries, several sweet cake, and two large pickles, and she now says she would rather remain single all her life than marry the man she saw in her dream.

Professor Huxley speaking at a meeting in support of the objects of the National Union for Improving the Education of the Women of all Classes, declared himself as not one of the converts to the new-fangled doctrine of the equality of women with men, but warmly supported the proposal for the establishment of girls' public day schools in furtherance of the higher education of women.

"Does prohibition prohibit?" is now a question earnestly discussed by the friends of temperance. The number of persons found in the cities of Maine, under the fearful influence of rum, proves the difficulty of enforcing prohibition, where the public sentiment is most strongly in favor of total abstinence. Let us have all the facts, and find the best way to suppress the monster crime of drunkenness.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that purchasers of confiscated real estate of rebels have a tenure only during the life of the disloyal owner. The effect of this decision will probably be to cause such estate to revert to the heirs of the original rebel proprietors after their death.

The boy Jesse Pomeroy, of Boston who has attracted no little attention during the past few years by his fiendish cruelty to boys younger than himself, and who was last spring arrested on the charge of killing the boy Mellen, has just confessed another atrocious crime. About the the time of the death ot Mellen, Kate Curran, a child ten years old, mysterously disappeared. All search was unavailing; but last Saturday her mangled remains were found concealed in a cellar of a house occupied by the Pomeroy family at the time of her disappearance. The atrocious mangling of the body corresponded with the wounds inflicted upon the previous victims of young Pomeroy. The chain of circumstautial evidence leads so directly to the lad, it is not surprising that the public opinon in Boston unanimously convicted him without trial. The subsequent confession of the boy places the matter beyond all dispute. His own account of the murder is a marvel of cold diabolism. The strang side of the whole tragedy is that this young monominae was ever allowed to go at large after he had showu his horable type of insanity by maiming six or seven boys, at different times. It is clear that he is a creature of diseased mind.

A farmer in Wyoming county is thinking of going to Colorado, and writes to a friend that he would "like to find some widow like the one named Ruth, who for a second husband married a chap with the absurd cognomen of Boaz, and who is ready like her to say, 'where thou go—West I will go' "

"I'm not afraid of a barrel of cider," said a toper to a temperance man. "I presume not," was the reply; "from your appearance I guess a barrel of cider would run at your approach."

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN AN IRON TONIC SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC

The only Illustrated Daily Newspaper in the World.

With its issue for March 4, 1874, THE DAILY GRAPHIC entered upon the second year of a career phenomenal in the history of journalism. Its story of a twelvemonths has been a steady and unquestioned growth in popular acceptance as the most original, artistically luxurious, and wonderfully comprehensive metropolitan journal ever published in the United States.

As a brilliant novelty, the whole country has confessed its unique attraction; as a practical and marvellously complete Newspaper, it has become a daily necessity to the social and mercantile interests of one of the largest permanent constituencies ever attained by a journalistic enterprise in the same period, while its great specialty, beyond all actuality or hope of competition, as has been the wonder, delight, and new education of individuals and homes in every State of the Union. In the very idea of such utilization of the finest pictorial art, for every day's information and reflection, there is all the charm of a romance; and the realization of that idea, made visible in THE DAILY GRAPHIC, is a practical and ever-varying assimilation of the most fascinating Ornament with the commonest Use which never palls upon even the most pampered taste. From the first issue the successive multitude of its pictures has been a perfect study of mechanical and journalistic development; the inevitable early imperfections of artists and others, not yet thoroughly trained in the new process, disappearing steadily in an as steadily increasing accurancy and beauty of artistic effects. Indeed this very illustration, from day to day, of the Time's spirit of progress in Art, as well as in Events has been an added and piquant interest, which is yet to be maintained for the public by unending future "Graphic" improvements. Scarcely more, however, for its beautiful portraits, trenchant cartoons, vivid news-etching, and unequalled reproductions of the world's choicest works of art, than for its unrivalled attractions as has THE DAILY GRAPHIC been nationally recognized and popularly welcomed. Its genuine editorial independence, wide sweep of intelligence, ever-varying department of literary and persona interest, sparkling correspondence and pungent criticisms, make it as much a favorite in the sanctum of the great Western or Southern or Northern newspapers as in the counting-room and the family circle.

A SUPERB PICTORIAL MIRROR

NEWS, SOCIETY, AND LITERATURE.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC is an Eight-page Paper, published every afternoon (three editions), in time for the errly mails to all parts of the country.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC has a larger average circulation—more copies printed and sold each day—than any other evening paper in New York excipting only the [penny] News.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC is a great newspaper, as well as the only illustrated daily paper. It has special correspondents everywhere, and it has a larger staff of writers and news-gatherers than any other evening paper in New York.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC is preserved for binding by hundreds of its readers in city and county. The annual subscriber gets a Pictorial History of the Year, a volume of twenty-four hundred pages, constituting a valuable record of events and a graphic panoroma of our time and progress,

We would call the attention of Teachers and Amateurs to Kinkel's New Method for the Reed Organ and Melodeon, as being the best work for these instruments. It contains a clear and simple course of instruction whereby any one may easily acquire the mastery of this favorite instrument, with a few months' study. It will always be a favorite work with the Teacher, on account of its clearness and systematic progression, more of an amusement than a study for the pupil, and will prove a mine of wealth to the Amateur, on account of the many choice Melodies, Songs, etc., also Mr Kinkel has selected and arranged expressly for this work. Local and Personal.

☞ Notwithstanding the extraordinary efforts to defeat a portion of it the entire Republican ticket is elected in this county.

☞ The "honest wing of the Republican party" got just five votes in Pasquotank and three of these men never voted the Republican ticket! Oh dear!!

☞ Several of the Independent candidates now say that hereafter they will believe us when we tell them that Democratic pledges and promises are only made to be broken.

☞ Our political horoscope got out of "fix" and consequently we failed to predict results with our usual accuracy. We'll see to it that it is in order next time.

☞ Jubilant—the Democrats over their victory. As it is the first time in many years they have had anything to rejoice over, it would be cruel to deprive them of their enjoyment now. So let them jubilate.

☞ We feel like a Western cotemporary who had "an editorial wish" He said; "We wish that every subscriber would dream that they had settled all arrearages, and wake up in the morning and find it to be true."

☞ No man ever gets all there is in a newspaper unless he reads the advertising columns attentively. They inform him who are the live business men of the town, and he also finds out where he can obtain the best bargains.

☞ We have received a communication apologizing for the action of one of the "bolters." We decline to publish it. It is no excuse to say that he meant well. The "pit below" where Apollyon reigns, according to poetical authority, is paved with good intentions.

☞ We sincerely regret to learn of the death, which occurred very suddenly on the 2nd inst., of Capt. E. H. Walker, of Coin Jock. He was a very estimable man and was the Republican candidate in Currituck for the Legislature. He was in his 60th year of age

☞ A shrewd business man says he never suffered pecuniarily by his enemies, but his friends had often occasioned him pecuniary losses. The reason is plain, he trusted his friends but not his enemies. We have had an unpleasant experience in the same way.

☞ There were about 100 stay at home Republicans in this county, nearly as many in Perquimans and a like proportion in every county. It will be seen that the Democratic vote is not increased but ours, by the stay at homes, is reduced. The Civil Rights bug bear did it.

☞ Will be disappointed—those gentlemen who are expecting places and positions through the influeuce of Maj. Yeates. He will be a mere cipher at Washington so far as controlling patronage is concerned. He can't remove a single officer in the District, nor can he secure a single appointment. When this fact becomes generally known how certain officiously active Yeates men we wot of will grow lean in "chewing the cud of disappointment."

☞ The Editor of the Weldon News has a good word for Nag's Head. He sensibly advises his friends to visit it and adds;

We expect to be down that way some of these August days for a sail. There are now several ladies and gentlemen from Edenton, Plymouth, Elizabeth City and other places, summering and slumbering, dancing and prancing, sailing and promenading, eating and drinking, courting and flirting, and having a good time generally at Nag's Head.

☞ Judge Albertson is holding Court here this week. He presides with the same dignity and ability that has ever characterized his official course. We believe it is conceded that Mr. Eure, the newly elected Judge, will not be sworn in office until the first of January, consequently Judge Albertson will hold the Courts in the balance of the counties of the District. Solicitor Bagley is also performing his duties with the care & industry he always employs He has made a faithful officer and it is with sincere regret that we part with him.

☞ There is one thing that the business men of Elizabeth City should consider if they wish to build up their town, and that is that there must be united action. If a man does business and makes his money here, he should confine his purchases here also. Of what satisfaction is it for a business man to encourage another when he perceives no indication of favors in return. Many things will have to be done before the town will attain the position to which it should aim. And the best way to get at it is to help one another, and keep money as far as possible within the town. If a person makes a few dollars and then goes elsewhere to spend it, how is that going to benefit the place? If there are those who have not considered the subject before, let them do so now.

☞ We are certainly blessed with a delightfully cool summer. For physical comfort nothing could be better. August seems to have forgotten her prescriptive right to a high elevation of the mercury, and to have settled down to thoughts of "hugging the bulb of the thermometer."

☞ Now that the election is over, let one and all pay more attention to other things, and among them is the question of getting ready for our Agricultural Fair this Fall. "Hard times" will be forgotten amid the bountiful crops and other productions, for which all should be duly thankful. There have been various afflictions of late, such as sick horses, a panic, crop failure, the comet, corrupt politicians and so forth; but God and Nature will repair all damages, and the world, with the race, will move right on. Then hurrah for the Fair! Prepare to trot out your beautiful steeds, lead out your bovines and your sheep, and bring your delicions fruit and your pumpkins, and squashes, and turnips, and beets, and potatoes, and grain. And the ladies, God bless them, let them do as they did last year and the thing is bound too succeed.

☞ When we were nominated for the office of County Commissioner our friends know that it was against our wish. We had no desire for the position, and we only accepted the nomination after earnest requests of friends whose opinions were entitled to consideration. At once a violent crusade, aided in every possible way by a Federal Judge, was waged against us. Every agency and argument and misrepresentation that political hatred and malice could invent and suggest were employed to defeat us. Voters all over the county were approached, buttonholed and importuned to vote against us. We remained silent—made no canvass—did not solicit a single vote. We resolved to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the people. They knew us, and they knew our active opponents. To their verdict, uninfluenced by a single word from us, we were willing to submit. If the result is any gratification to the parties referred to, they are welcome to enjoy it. It is perfectly satisfactory to us. We propose, as we have tried to do in every position we have been called on to fill, to do our duty.

An unwholesome season.—The closing days of winter and the early days of spring are very trying to the feeble and sensitive and are apt to affect unpleasantly even the more robust and vigorous. Nothing can be more depresing to the spirits than damp, chilling winds, fogs and cold rains, and of such unwelcome visitors we have a superabundance at this season. Common prudence suggest, therefore, the propriety of fortifying the system against these insidious enemies of health and comfort, and the experience of more than a quater of a century points to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as the all-sufficient sanitary safeguard under such untoward circumstances. An accession of vital strength and energy is what is required to meet and overcome the unhealthy elements now present in the atmosphere. This increase of vital power, so necessary to meet the extraordinary drafts which an inclement season makes upon the system and the constitution can be readily acquired by taking from two to three doses of Hostetter's Bitters daily during the winter and spring months The nature of this celebrated restorative is well known to the public It is composed of an absolutely pure diffusive stimulant, medicated with the extracts and juices of the most effective tonic, alterative, anti-bilious and laxative roots and herbs known to medical science To the combination of these excellent ingredients, in propotions suitable to the exigencies of enfeebled, languid and diseased systems the great tonic-alterative owes its effiency af a preventive and curative. A course of it commenced now will prevent all danger of fever and ague, rheumatism, or other ailments arising from damp peculiar to the spring months, and also prove a safeguard against the attacks of dyspepsia and liver complaint which so frequently occur at this period of the year.

TWO AMERICAN MAGAZINES.—

The excellence of American Magazines has become so well recognized abroad that one of the leading English Papers, the London Weekly Register, in a recent issue, thus speaks of Scribner Monthly.

"We are constrained to own that SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY carries off the prize against all shilling monthly serials for brilliancy of illustrations and variety of contents. It is simply a wonderful shilling's worth. Nothing can be more charming than the cuts,—full of force and vigor; the light and shade are managed with a truly artistic power. Out of its one and twenty original articles, we really do not know which to choose as best, for each and all are excellent."

Not only is it true that Scribner's Monthly excels the English Magazines, but it is "The Best of the American Monthlies."

In the extent, variety and artistic excellence ef its illustratiou of American themes, it has never been even approached, much less excellod. It has a large page and gives a greater variety in its contents than any other of the Standard American Monthlies.

In literary character, and in the brilliancy and ability of its Editorial Departments, it enjoys an equal pre-eminence.

Its conductors started with the definite aim of making it the best magazine in the world, of which they have for a moment lost sight. and they point with pride and pleasure to the May and June numbers, recently issued and ask for them a candid examination and a careful comparison of their merits with those of other magazines; and they renew their pledge to the public. to strive for still higher excellence in the future.

A considerable demand has recently arisen in England for Sir. Nicholas, Scribner's New magazine for boys and girls, one publisher desiring to secure an edition of three thousand of first bound volume (when completed) with his imprint.

The success of St. Nicholas in this country has been even more remarkable than that of Scribner's Monthly: It is pronounced to be "an ideally perfect magazine for children" and, as is the case with all the best literature for children, it has been found to possess surpassing interest for grown-up readers, as well

The influence of the periodicals of the day can scarcely be estimated, especially upon the rising generation. Parents and teachern cannot afford to be indifferent to this influence, or careless in relation to the character of the literature furuished to the children outside of their school lessons. In St. Nicholas not only are History, Natural Philosophy, Literature Fine Arts, and manufactures presented in an attractive way to young readers, but the children are stimulated to seek information for themselves,

The Publishers will send to any address a specimen number of St. Nicholas, postage pre-paid, on receipt of ten cents, the bare cost of paper and printing. The magazines are sold by all firstclass Booksellers and Newsdealers, everywhere.

Machinery on the Farm.

The early cutting of hay which has become the fashion now because it is profitable could not have been done this year but for the admirable mowers which are distributed in every neighborhood. Instead of the hay harvest lingering along through July and far into August, as was formerly the case when the farmer and his hired man nibbled away day after day at one side of a badly-lodged clover field with their scythes, the mowers have cleaned the fields out in short order. Grass as a rule, has been cut and received when it ought to be—the tedder following the mower, the horse rake, the tedder, and the horse pitchfolk relieving the farmer of the stifling and perspiring work of unloading and stowing away. Then the time saved! Half the help and one-fifth the time is required that used to be in the good old days when scythes, boys to spread the hay, hand rakes, and ordinary pitchfolks and farm muscle had this work to do. Then, also, blessed is the man who invented hay caps—those canvas or cotton concerns that are pegged right over a cock of hay as soon os a shower threatens. Thousands of tons of hay have been saved from depreciation this season by their use, and thousands more ought to have been. Besides, they are just as useful on barley cocks, or cocks of barley and oats, and on shocks of wheat and oats.

Next come the reapers, self-raking or otherwise, which save the laborous swing of the cradles and the raking of the swaths preparatory for binding. Grain can be cut when it ought to be, bound at once, set in shocks, capped, and then received in the ricks or on the scaffolds, or, which is fast becoming the practice on the larger grain farms, drawn right to the combined thresher, separator and cleaner, set in the field and thrashed and stored in bags, the straw being left where it grew. No man need send illy-cleaned grain to market, nor tow foul seed at seeding, for the fanning mills, otherwise known as separators, are now so perfected that the heavy grain can be separated from the light, the cheat from the cockle, the grass seed from the clover, &c Indeed, there is no kind of separation the farmer requires that cannot now be done with the machines that are put upon the market.

Next comes the fall ploughing and fall seeding. Here are the labor saving machines again! Gang plows on wheels, the driver riding and managing the plows, turning two furrows with more ease and quite as well as he used to turn one. An extra horse or two is all that is required in the heavier work. The improved harrows or wheat cultivatators help to prepare the ground where further pulveriaztion is necessary. Then the drill, which distributes the seed, both grain and grass, sowing with it fertilizers if desired, and roling the ground compactly upon it, is all done on many farms at a single operation.

Again, the door yards and grounds about homes need not wear ragged clothing longer—that is, there is no need of a neglected look about the house because, forsooth, the farmer and his boys cannot get time to cut the grass and weeds. A lawn mower, of which there are a plenty good ones, costs but a trifle, can be used about shrubery and among flower beds where it is difficult to swing a scythe, may be furnished the women folk, whose pride alone will tempt them to push it over the lawn and yard for the sake of the tidy appearance it secures. If this is thought to be too heavy work for the women, let us say that we have seen mowers that a girl twelve years old could force through the grass without much exhaustion and delight in doing so. There is, therefore, no excuse for neglecting the lawn grounds about the house because help is so scarce.

When it comes to cutting corn, there are machines that are drawn by one or two horses that cut one or two rows at a time as fast as a team can walk a deposits it in gavels ready for the binder; husking machines to do the buskins, and we shell have—have now, adapted to some soils and localities—potato diggers to save us this back-torturing work.

So we might go on through almost every phase of faam life to show what improved impliments are doing to revolutionize labor on the farm and relieve the farmer and his family of once grievous burdens? But wherefore? Don't everybody know it?

Mange In Horses

Wilkes' Spirit of the Times pronounced the following to be a safe and most effective remedy: Whale [sperm] oil 6 ounces; oil of tar, 3 oences; lac sulpher, 2 ounces: mix thoroughly, and apply by means of a hair brush. The skin should be thoroughly washed before the remedy is applied. At the end of three or four days the animal is again te be washed and the remedy reapplied, as it is very possible that all the ova [of the mange insect] are not killed by the first dressing.

Mange being a contagious disease, it is essential that all amimals suffering from it should be isolated, and all objects with which they may have come in contact purified.

The clothing is to be boiled with a salution of soap and carbolic acid, and and the harness. and saddle and grooming utensils washed with warm water and soap, and dressed with a salution of arsenic or corrosive sublimate, in the proportion of 10 grains to the ounce of water. After being so washed and dressed they are to be kept for several days exposed to dry air. washed again with soap and water before they are used, and before they are again put on the horse they should be sprinkled on the side next the horse's skin with sulphurr These may seem useless precaution, but in many cases the harness and clothing are lined with thick scabs, containing the ova of the parasites, the vitality of which is so great as to almost defy all efforts to destroy it.

To keep Hams in Summer.

The Germantown Telegraph says: "There are a number of modes given to keep hams through the warm season free from the attacks of insects. Some bag them and whitewash the bags, which is somewhat expensive; some cover them with dry wood ashes and pack them in barrells and cover thoroughly with pine shavings; but we think the best plan of all and certainly the least expensive with all who have a smokehouse, and every farmer should have a good one, is to keep the hams hung up in the smokehouse, which should be kept perfectly dark at all times. We have eaten hams so kept two years old, and they were among the very best we ever tasted. Uniform darkness is a complete protection against the attack of insects.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE
PURELY
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use Vinegar Bitters.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

The Saturday Evening Post.
The Oldest and Best Story Paper Published.
Founded August 4th, A. D. 1821.

For more than half century the Saturday Evening Post has been the of the Country, and has ever born a widespread and unblemished reputation for the unsurpassed purity, refinement and excellence of of the Serials, Sketches and Miscellaneous reading matter.

It is pre-eminently

that is published in this county, from its never containing anything that would offend the feelings of any one, either in a religious or political sense, or that could not be read at any fireside without objection from the most fastidious.

The circulation of the Saturday Evening Post, though not quite so large perhaps, as its younger contemporaries, is not, like that of some of them, fluctuating. and too often short lived, but based upou the intrinsic merit of the paper itself, and not dependent on any extraneous influences, such as the popularity of individual writers, &c.

Good, however, as the Saturday Evening Post has been in the past, it is our intention to make it still better in the future, and with this object in view we will effect a marked improvement in every department of the paper and will call to our assistance writers of admitted ability and known reputation.

By increasing its former attractions, and adding many judicious and pleasing novelties by studying how to please aud cultivate the popular taste. by increasing industry and enterprise, and by enlarged facilities, we hope to make new friends with each and every issue, and continue to maintain the claim of the Saturday Evening Post to its title of The Oldest and the Best of Family Story Papers.

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ship.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumn day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemed nigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day,
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down io Johnson Hall,
You'll find things all right there.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need not ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
